Website Application

CourseQuest is a web application built to help students connect and become more involved in the process of enrolling in classes.

Every year hundreds of thousands of students struggle when deciding to pick electives and often resort to enrolling in “whatever their advisor suggests” only to later on realize there may have been class tailored more toward their interests. CourseQuest acts as a type of social media platform for students to connect and seek out information about certain classes from peers who have already taken the course. CourseQuest will eliminate “going in blind” to any course and will save the students from wasting time and money on a course
